JARC/New Freedom Programs Overview

The Detroit Department of Transportation (DDOT) was awarded grant funds from the Federal Transit Administration (FTA) to address the unmet transit needs for the city's elderly, disabled and low income population. The grants will aid in the following areas of need:

Job Access, Reverse Commute (JARC)

The goal of the Job Access and Reverse Commute program is to provide transportation services to jobs and employment-related activities for low-income city residents to and from suburban area jobs.

New Freedom

The goal of the New Freedom program is to provide transportation options to people with disabilities seeking integration into the work force and society beyond the current Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) of 1990.

Transportation for Elderly Persons and Persons with Disabilities

The goal of this program is to improve the mobility of elderly citizens and citizens with disabilities by providing transportation services planned, designed, and carried out to meet their special transportation needs in metropolitan Detroit.

Below is a chart detailing the correlation between family size and annual income that describes individuals and families 150% below the poverty level in dollar value.

Size of Family	Annual Income
