IX. Introductions of Board administrative and investigative staff, the Chief of Police, Elected Officials or Representatives and Community Leaders.

X. Chair's Report. Chairperson Pressley expressed at our last community meeting there was a title given to meeting attendees calling them committee members. After the review of the bylaws there is currently no policy that allows for either staff or community citizens to be considered as committee members. Therefore, we will hold off on giving that title until a policy has been established. But they will be counted on the record as meeting participants. Again, as we prepare for our next community meeting. We know that it has become a practice to ensure that we honor individuals in our community who has done amazing things, but I do encourage all of our commissioners to review the award protocols, because again, the awards that comes from this body should be focused on public safety and oversight. We want to make sure that we align our commendations with that criteria. We want to make sure that it maintains its weightiness by ensuring that we honor those who indeed are doing amazing work in those regards.

XII. Chief of Police Report.

Assistant Chief Charles Fitzgerald reported on current CompStat Crime/Statistical Data for Violent Crime and Property and recent critical incidents impacting the DPD and the community.

The following inquiries require responses from the BOPC and/or DPD:

COMMISSIONER BURTON: Looking at the department's budget for $400,000 for 6 square miles for ShotSpotter, the community wants to know how effective has ShotSpotter been. Especially for the price tag that the city is invested in. We want to know when it comes to alerts, arrests, convictions, falsely detained and lawsuits do you have any of those numbers? Going back to the time since Detroit started being part of the ShotSpotter's program.

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: Through the Chair, I do not have them with me, but that's something that's very easily attainable.

COMMISSIONER BURTON: How valuable is the ShotSpotter program when you have a lot of alerts, not enough arrest, not enough guns confiscated, and you still have lawsuits and cities pulling away from this? Why is Detroit still involved in the ShotSpotter program?

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: Through the Chair, I don't know where you're getting your information from, most of it seems anecdotal. It is very, valuable.

COMMISSIONER BERNARD: I think that Commissioner Burton's questions were right on in terms of ShotSpotter. I think that perhaps your office, or maybe the legal department, Mr. Ha, or whoever should be able to respond to those questions. We're not on an island. We are concerned about what happens in other cities and other communities using the technology that cost us millions of dollars. These reports about it being inefficient, ineffective for all practical purposes, not worth the money are important. I think that kind of analysis is appropriate for all of our technological type programs. Is it worth it? I know we can spend more money, but is it worth it? And what do your colleagues in other cities think about it? That's important. So I don't think it can be dismissed, and if you can respond, maybe not today, but maybe at our next meeting to his questions it would be great.

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: Through the Chair, I do not mean to dismiss the questions. The problem is that it is comparing apples to oranges. Don't know what Chicago does compared to what we do. I can give you plenty of data how it is effective in Detroit. I will be more than happy to reach out and see why they got rid of it, and be able to provide you the data why, we say it works.

COMMISSIONER WOODS: On January 11, with Officer Joshua was that a ShotSpotter call?

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: It came out originally as a muffled ShotSpotter sometimes that happens when a round is inside of a home, and it could also be suppressed. It could be that it comes out of an area. We have had requests from outside agencies and cities that want to have access to our data because they can get pickup stuff in their city as well on the border.

COMMISSIONER WOODS: So when that happened Officer Joshua and his partner responded to that. Someone was shot right? Do you have a number of scenarios where ShotSpotter was used and they were able to intervene in situations? As it relates to the Chicago report at the end of that report they said, they would re-evaluate it at the end. They don't know whether or not if they going to get rid of it or not. Right? So it's not conclusive that Chicago will get rid of is. They had some questions about how they were operating. How many lives you think that probably been intervene and saved with this technology.

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: It would strictly be a guest, but I would put many, many. It is an extremely valuable tool that the officers utilized every single day. They pull it up on the phone. As they going there within feet, you could pick up where those gunshots are fired.

COMMISSIONER SMITH: I understand that police departments are different, and policies are different per state and cities. I can only contest to what Detroit offers. I have seen where ShotSpotter is definitely effective in our community. As stated before, I can give you different scenarios, that ShotSpotter was effective. We have one where ShotSpotter went off, the officers went out. The woman was near fatally shot. Once in the head. Once in the abdomen and because of the ShotSpotter going off, medics were able to arrive and get her to the hospital, and she's alive today. On September 24, 2023, there was a fatal shooting at a hookah lounge on West 7 Mile. The officers responded because of the ShotSpotter going off. Unfortunately, one was fatally wounded, others were saved because of the ShotSpotter, and the officers coming in a timely manner. So, in my opinion, ShotSpotter has been very effective in our city, and has been very effective in saving lives within our community.

COMMISSIONER WOODS: Is ShotSpotter used by itself independently solely to arrest anyone? Dealing with Facial Recognition and all these technologies and things of that nature. Can those be used independently to arrest someone?

ASSISTANT CHIEF FITZGERALD: No, through the Chair, These are investigative leads. Everything across the board we use technology for is an investigative lead to further enhance an ongoing investigation. So, it just helps you, and sometimes can point you in the right direction. But is not the end all be all that we can put handcuffs on someone because of.

COMMISSIONER BURTON: From our Civil Liberties Activist Community, we do not want to see microphone sensors in America's blackest and poor city like Detroit. What it is with these microphone sensors in communities of color is unwarranted snooping. It violates one's civil liberties. In addition, it's an expensive price tag that costs roughly $400,000 that covers six square miles. But the Department can't share with us today are the total alerts, and deployment and arrests and convictions, or pending lawsuits or lawsuits that was awarded because of this technology. We look at cities like Dayton, Ohio. They pulled a plug on ShotSpotter. Now we're looking at Chicago pulling the plug, you know Michael Williams, in Chicago, was wrongfully arrested. Served over a year in prison for a crime he didn't commit based off of skink evidence from ShotSpotter technology. There's no question that these cities are pulling away. Why is Detroit still continuing with its ShotSpotter program? We have fiducial responsibilities when it comes to civilian oversight where we can actually shut it down.

XIII. Presentation to the Board – DPD Budget – ACFO Nevrus Nazarko, Agency CFO

A. DPD Budget – ACFO Nevrus Nazarko, Agency CFO provided an overview of the Detroit Police Department FY2025 Budget.

The following inquiries require responses from the BOPC and/or DPD:

COMMISSIONER BERNARD: I see your responses to the questions are largely non-responsive. How much does it cost the City of Detroit to provide a towing operation for the police department, you say see, attached Budget report. There is no attach budget report specifically on towing. You say that we don't budget for Project Green Light. Which obviously would be part of the Real Time Crime Center.

ACFO NAZARKO: Through the Chair, the Tow Operations, we budget approximately $2.2 million for Tow Operations and that includes personnel that includes the operation of tow trucks that includes the money we pay to the tow vendors, and that includes the money we pay for toll lot security. However, that number that's the budgeted number, the revenues that come throughout the year, and other expenditures that can incur or are required to be increased during the year, are not reflected in that in that budget. The $1.2 million is the additional amount that we asking from last year's to this year, budget. We are asking for an additional $1.2 million because of the repairs we need to do at the Tow yard facilities, plus the increased cost of security to provide security for the tow lots, and that's the in over and above last year's budget.

COMMISSIONER WOODS: As it relates to the Towing situation these, are all City of Detroit Tow vehicles and Tow operations?

ACFO NAZARKO: That is correct. Those are all within the boundaries of the city of Detroit. However, the operations are split between the Departments. All truck equipment or tow trucks and the private vendors' equipment. So the portion of the tows are done by the department, and the portion of the tows are done by the private towers.

COMMISSIONER WOODS: This need to be asked to the Chief, and we probably need to get a letter, I get a lot of complaints by residents of the City of Detroit, in terms of some of the predatory nature of these tow companies. I don't know if they are tied to the city. I have some names that they have given and things of that nature. And one thing we want do is make sure, that we ensure that citizens are not being exploited by some of these companies. I know this has been a big bone of contention, and all of the nuances of this towing operation throughout the years. How problematic it has been. I want to know why the one company was dismissed. Secondly, I want make sure that we are ensuring that the citizens of the city of Detroit are not being preyed on by some of these companies.

COMMISSIONER BURTON: I have a lot of questions and concerns Number 1, I don't think the City of Detroit should be operating in the towing business. Number 2, what is it really costing overall for the City of Detroit to operate in the towing business? Is the city making money or losing money? We are talking about $2.1 million that's a line item in the budget for towing. But you're looking at the Tow lot rental, security, maintenance for the truck all of those additional costs. So we really want to know is how much does it really cost in the City of Detroit, to really operate in the Towing business. Should we be operating in the Towing business? These dollars in this line item can be reallocated into mental health, social justice programs, or it could be reinvested back into the community instead of on this report.

COMMISSIONER BANKS: DPD gets $2.5 million a year for Tasers? How long does the Tasers last? That $2.5 million we're paying for Tasers?

ACFO NAZARKO: We budget every 5 years for a replacement Tasers, however, they may last little longer 6 or 7 years, if we maintain them. We perform some maintenance work on them. But we budget as if they are going to expire in 5 years.

CHAIRPERSON PRESSLEY: I encourage all of our commissioners' diligence. If you have responses in the answers that were given that you find to be insufficient and make sure that you communicate that. And I'm sure there might be some clarification that's available. Now, if you want more detail. Then that again, is your right, as you're seeking for due diligence. But make sure that we're being appropriate, excuse me accurate, on how we're communicating to the public what we have received.

COMMISSIONER BURTON: The Detroit Police Department participates in the 1022 program as well as the 1033 program with the Department of Defense. We want to know, what dollars that's in the Detroit Police Department's budget that's going into the Department of Defense to whether it's for hand-me-down equipment or purchases of new equipment. We also like to know what lawsuits has the city has paid out. We don't know what DPD has in inventory, what they're received over the years when this equipment was deployed. We know that when you had peaceful protesters in the city and the police department were wearing riot gear that was military equipment that was deployed the streets that day. You had innocent protests thrown to the ground, shot with flash gang grenade, pepper sprayed thrown down with zip ties behind their back, and many and some of them were actually journalists.

CHAIRPERSON PRESSLEY Asked any further questions be put in writing, and then you can get those formal responses either from the CFO or DPD.
