Window Numbering Information:

To ensure absolute clarity and prevent any potential misinterpretation, we have included a reference chart aligning the window schedule line numbers with the corresponding labels shown on the elevation photos.

In our window schedule, each item is numbered in increments of 100 (e.g., 100, 200, 300), a common formatting choice that provides space for potential future additions or edits.

For the elevation images, we used a simplified numerical system (1, 2, 3, etc.) to maintain visual clarity and avoid crowding the drawings with redundant zeroes.

While the numerical correlation between the two formats is direct and consistent, each schedule item corresponds to its matching sequential photo label, we understand that providing an explicit conversion table may assist in reinforcing this relationship.

The chart on the next slide outlines this one-to-one mapping in full detail.

We hope this resolves any remaining ambiguity.
