Planning Update:

The City of Detroit launched the Midwest-Tireman Framework with the consultant team led by Interboro Partners (urban planning & design) - with Rossetti (urban design), DCDC (landscape architecture & community engagement), Spalding DeDecker (mobility & infrastructure), and BJH (economic development & market analysis). The consultant team was briefed by the Planning & Development Department and other city departments and agencies on key community expressed issues. PDD and the consultant team followed with a neighborhood tour and meeting with a small group of residents to hear firsthand challenges and opportunities in the neighborhood. We look forward to a larger community-wide meeting to hear from more of you on your ideas and concerns that should be considered by the framework.

CULTURE AND HISTORY BECOMES THE LINK AND BASIS FOR ALL FRAMEWORK ELEMENTS
